

How does your building run?

You've probably heard this story a thousand times. One side is too hot. The other side is too cold. And about the only place it's just right is in the elevator. But there can be a happy ending with 3M™ Scotchtint™ window film. The film reflects the sun's heat away from your building, lowering your building's energy bill and making your people more comfortable so they can work happily ever after.
